WHSCC ANNOUNCES 2006 WORKSHOPS

Saint John: The Workplace Health, Safety and Compensation Commission (WHSCC) of New Brunswick is pleased to present its roster of 2006 workshops.

“Education is the key role of our mandate to help create workplace environments that view all occupational diseases and accidents as being preventable,” says Andy Rauska, Director, Divisional Support, WorkSafe Services of the WHSCC. “We consult closely with the workers and employers of New Brunswick to identify not only the information they want, but the information they need. We’re happy to provide that information in the form of these workshops.”

The workshops are held in both French and English in various locations across the province throughout the year, and range in length from a half-day to 3 days. Topics include:

- JHSC Core Training
- WHMIS
- Lock Out and Tag
- Supervisors and Due Diligence
- Ergonomics
- Claims Management and Workplace Accommodation Process

The workshops are open to any New Brunswick worker or employer, at no cost to the worker.
